

Summer 2018

Anthro 104:

Cultural Anthropology and Human Diversity

Satisfies the Ethnic Studies Requirement

How do humans organize and make sense of the world around them?

How does culture shape the diverse ways that people cope with life, death, sex, joy, conflict, economics, power, and other experiences?

What can learning about different ways of life teach us about our own beliefs?

Explore these questions and more during an 8 week summer course.

Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9:30am – 12:00pm.

June 18 – August 12.

Instructor:

Jennifer Estes, PhD Candidate, Department of Anthropology